

National Sales Tax Is Urged

Washington (AP)—The National Association of Manufacturers laid squarely before Congress yesterday a plea for a national sales tax as the first step on "a firm road to fiscal security."

The argument was one that some congressmen expect to hear from the Eisenhower administration next January. Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey has said he is considering a sales tax as part of a broad tax revision program.

NAM President Charles R. Sligh Jr. called for a uniform tax of 4½ to 5 per cent on all manufactured goods except food and food products, effective next April 1. Separate, higher taxes would be maintained on alcoholic beverages and tobacco.

Sligh urged this uniform rate to replace the present system of sharply varying excise or sales taxes on scores of products, but which leaves many other goods untaxed. He said total revenue would be about the same as at present—roughly 10 billion dollars annually.

The effect would be to lower and equalize levies on articles already taxed, and extend the levy to hundreds of new items for the first time.

Sligh's statement was prepared for presentation at a night session of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, which is considering the sales tax proposition as part of its own general tax revision effort.

It was the first hearing in years specifically devoted to a national sales tax.

Sligh insisted there is no logical basis for the selection of particular goods and services now taxed, nor for the range of tax rates imposed.

Present excise taxes—not counting higher liquor or tobacco rates—generally range from a few percentage points to over 30 per cent.

Sligh noted that the national excise rate could be adjusted upward or downward easily to meet revenue needs. Failure to enact such a tax, he added, has resulted in "more deficits, more inflation."

Sligh insisted it is not true that a flat-rate excise tax would shift tax burdens from the big fellow to the little fellow. He cited a chart claiming that a 4½ per cent national sales tax, as he advocated, would cost $96 a year for a family of four with $4,000 annual income, and $213 for the same family with $10,000 income.

Stronger U.N. Proposed By Hammarskjöld

United Nations, N. Y. (AP)—Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld promised yesterday to do his best to keep U. N. employees out of national politics. At the same time, he expressed the hope that member governments would not resort to pressures to influence the Secretariat.

Hammarskjöld's views were outlined in his first annual report to the 60-nation General Assembly in which he put forward a five-point program for strengthening the U. N.

One of the essentials, he said, is that the development of "a truly international civil service, free from all national pressures and influences, should be recognized, not only in words, but in deeds."

Without mentioning any country by name, Hammarskjöld added that this principle had not been given the significance it should have in the policies of member governments.

At another point in his report, however, he reviewed—without comment—the problem of alleged U. S. subversives in the Secretariat which plagued his predecessor, Trygve Lie. Some countries charged that the U. S. was exerting undue pressure on Lie.

"The international civil service should be left free from national pressures of any sort," he said. "The United Nations itself cannot be fully effective in its appointed functions except under these conditions."

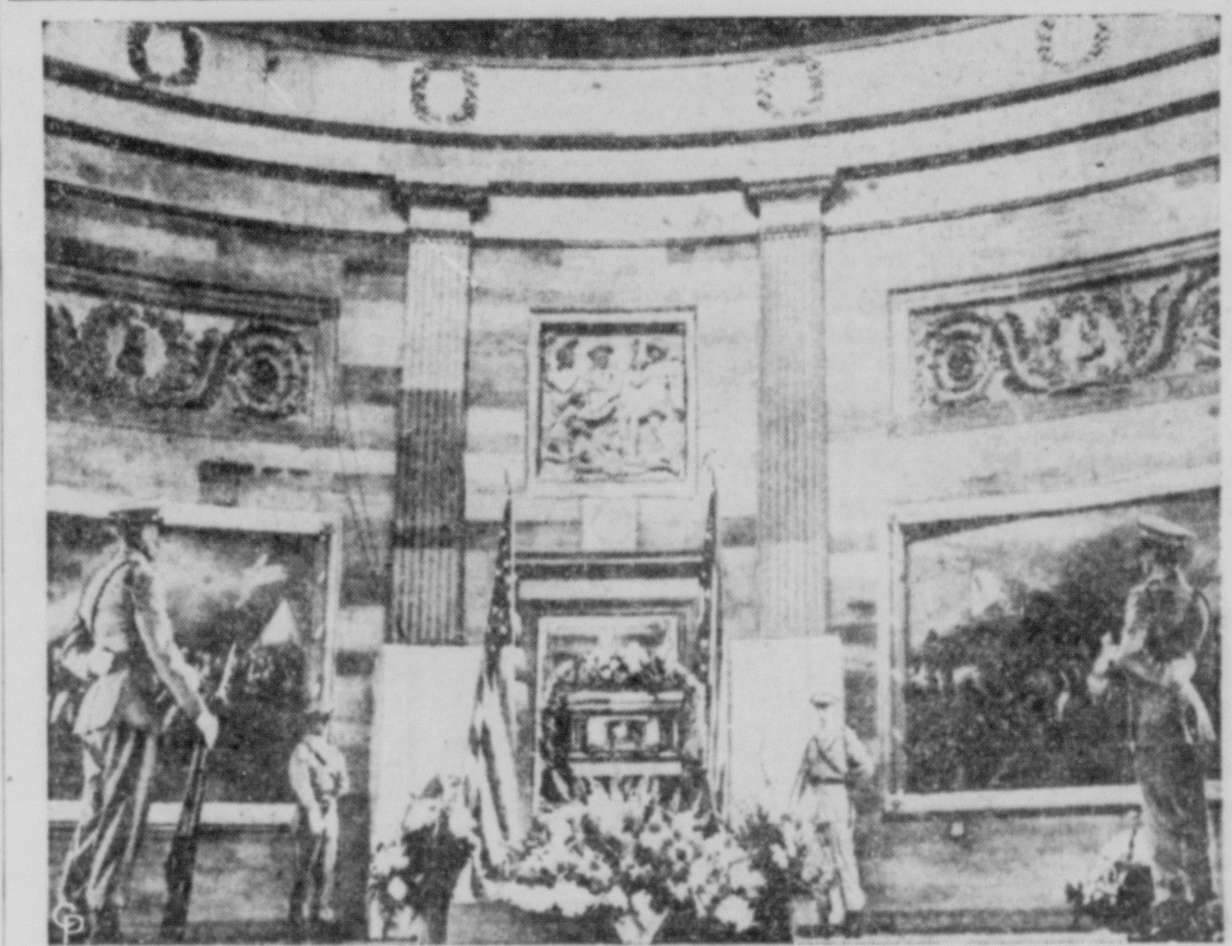

Other points in Hammarskjöld's proposed program called on the member nations to:

One—Extend the scope of international law and build respect for it.

Two—Place more emphasis on economic and social development of underdeveloped areas.

Morse Speech Delays Senate Adjournment

U. S. Denies Plan To Use Troops To Rebuild Korea

A MILITARY guard of honor stands at attention at the black-draped catafalque bearing the casket of Senate Majority Leader Robert A. Taft in the Rotunda of the United States Capitol in Washington. Sen. Taft's body is the first to rest in state in the Capitol since the state funeral of General of the Armies John J. Pershing in 1948.

Government Dignitaries Pay Honor To Taft At State Funeral Beneath Capitol Dome

Washington, (AP)—Fallen Sen. Robert A. Taft received yesterday a last full measure of homage from leaders of a mighty nation at a state funeral beneath the Capitol dome.

A Congress in which the Ohioan became almost a one-man institution paused in its adjournment rush and gathered with President Eisenhower, high dignitaries of government, the Taft family and friends for solemn memorial rites in the vast, circular rotunda.

Prayers, a single warm tribute, the national anthem—that was all. Yet in this simple service, Taft was honored as only 12 of his countrymen have been before him.

After it was over, the unopened bronze casket was carried slowly down the massive front steps of the Capitol to the "plaza" where hundreds of ordinary folk were assembled. It was then taken to the National Airport for flight to Cincinnati and a private funeral and burial today.

Mrs. Taft, four sons and their wives followed an hour later in a private plane of the Chase National Bank of New York.

The Senate Republican leader died of cancer Friday in New York. Sunday his body lay in state in the center of the Capitol rotunda while tens of thousands wended by to honor him.

Yesterday the casket and the catafalque on which it rested was moved to the west side of the great central room of the Capitol and the people who knew Taft best in official and personal life crowded in to offer their final tribute.

Senate members, and then those of the House, entered in a body. Chief Justice Vinson and other Supreme Court justices, Cabinet members, America's military chiefs, ambassadors and ministers of other lands were escorted into the chamber.

The ailing Mrs. Taft, dressed in black, confined to a wheelchair, appeared in the rotunda 10 minutes before the services began at noon. Her sons accompanied her, and all took their places to the right of the bier and its blanket of yellow roses.

Three minutes later, Mrs. Eisenhower and then the President took their seats to the left.

The Marine orchestra played "America the Beautiful" in muted tones. An all-service honor guard of four young men in immaculate uniforms stood stiffly at attention at the four corners of the coffin.

For a moment there was silence. Then the voice of the Senate chaplain, Rev. Frederick Brown Harris, was heard in comforting passages from the Bible:

"Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for Thou art with me..."

Taft's fellow senator from Ohio, white-haired John W. Bricker, took the speakers' platform at the head of the bier to deliver a warm eulogy to this man of "great achievement."

Taft, the senator said, created his own eternal memorial in services to his government and through government, to his fellow man.

With a benediction from the House chaplain, Rev. Bernard Braskamp, and "The Star Spangled Banner" by the Marine Band, the services ended. The honor guard snapped bayonet-tipped rifles to their shoulders and marched out. Eight soldiers took their places and picked up the casket.

Technical Aid To Be Offered Korean Labor

Washington (AP)—The White House said yesterday "there is no intention whatever of using American combat units as labor troops in Korea."

The White House statement followed published reports that President Eisenhower has approved a plan to rebuild war-wrecked South Korea into a show window of the free world by using American troops in the work of rehabilitation.

Chairman Saltonstall (R-Mass.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee told the Senate it would be "outrageous" to put combat soldiers to work in Korea manning "shovels and wheelbarrows."

In a statement to reporters late yesterday, Assistant White House Press Secretary Murray Snyder said the President wants our forces "to give technical assistance to the South Korean government so as to accelerate reconstruction and rehabilitation of the war-ravaged country."

But, Snyder said, combat units will not be employed as labor troops.

Some people, Snyder said, including members of Congress, had interpreted the plan as calling for the use of American troops in labor battalions.

"There is ample Korean labor willing to participate in this work," Snyder said.

"The primary mission of our military personnel there is defense. They are going to be rested, trained, and kept in a high degree of combat readiness."

"Examples of the kinds of technical assistance they will provide: 'Engineers will assist in constructing bridges to restore the flow of commerce and medical units will undertake disease control measures.'"

Saltonstall told the Senate that remarks attributed to Secretary of State Dulles about use of troops for the reconstruction of war-shattered South Korea probably did not reflect what he had in mind.

Earlier Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) another member of the Armed Services Committee, said "We are not going to tolerate the use of American troops... as forced labor in rehabilitation work." He called the reported plan "alien" to the United States.

Second Man Is Given Life Term

Butler, (AP)—A second man received a life sentence to Western State Penitentiary yesterday for the installment plan slaying of Mrs. Alice Storch.

Judge J. Frank Graft of Armstrong County noted out the life term to Russell Budd, 28, of Pittsburgh, convicted of first degree murder with a life imprisonment recommendation.

Hungry East Germans Risk Lives For Food; Dresden Housewife Tells Of Confiscation

By Richard Kasiechke
Berlin, (AP) Would you risk your life for seven pounds of simple foodstuffs? For a parcel of two pounds of flour, two pounds of lard, two pounds of dried peas and four small cans of condensed milk?

Some hungry East Germans are doing that now as they struggle to break through a Communist travel blockade that bars them from entering West Berlin to collect free American food packages.

Would you creep four hours through a forest, dodging Communist police, for this gift ration? And when you got it, would you risk a long series of Communist reprisals when you got home? Like a heavy fine, having your husband fired from his job, misery for your own children?

Frau M., from a small town near Dresden thought the free food was worth it.

She has been living for eight years in the Russian zone, and she looked it—shabby, pale and washed out, though still in her 30s.

Last week she heard on the Berlin American radio station that free food would be distributed here.

Allies Ready For Prisoner Exchange Tomorrow; Task Force Enters North Korea

Munsan, Korea, Tuesday, (AP)—Allied prisoners were assembling just back of the Bamboo Curtain today for the opening of the first exchange of post-armistice prisoners of war tomorrow.

Emphasizing the imminence of the hour, an Allied Red Cross task force drove jeeps through the Bamboo Curtain for the first time since the war began three years ago.

The 30-man team, including nine Americans, was armed only with comfort packages for the 12,763 Allied captives to be exchanged. There are 3,313 Americans in this group. Some Americans undoubtedly will be exchanged tomorrow. The Reds will turn over 400 disabled non-Koreans then.

The Red Cross team was headed for the Yalu River boundary between Manchuria and North Korea, where prison camps are now being emptied of their prisoners.

Given admittance only grudgingly, the Reds stipulated that only Communist military personnel be permitted to distribute Red Cross food and comfort packets.

Simultaneously Communist Red Cross workers were due to fly southward to see 74,000 Red Korean and Chinese prisoners in Allied stockades.

Final preparations were being rushed to give the first 400 returning American and Allied prisoners a heartfelt welcome when they start through freedom date at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

Presumably the first group of Allied captives reached Kaesong by train last night. Kaesong, the advanced Red truce headquarters, is within 15 miles of Panmunjom.

East Germans Strike, Unrest Boils As Armed Reds Block Populace From Free U.S. Food

Berlin, (AP)—Protest strikes blazed up in East Germany's largest industries yesterday as 225,000 Communist German troops and police held off the hungry nation at gunpoint from free American food.

Enraged workers, beaten back with clubs and rifle butts from Berlin-bound trains Sunday, went on sitdowns and slowdowns yesterday in big plants producing gasoline, rubber, steel, and chemicals for the Soviet war economy.

The Russian zone boiled with unrest, apparently needing only a spark to explode into another June 17th revolt.

The Soviet Army, 300,000 strong, continued on a riot alert that had never been relaxed even after martial law was lifted July 11. Tank forces were redeployed during the week of July 12-18 so as to be ready to seize control of key German cities on a moment's notice. They continue to be based in these same positions.

High Allied military sources confirmed last night that no Soviet troops were called out to help East German armed forces suppress more than 150 hunger riots at Soviet zone railway stations Sunday.

They said the Red Wehrmacht and the Volkspolizei (peoples police) "did the job all by themselves for once."

The Soviet commander in chief, Gen. A. A. Grechko, was reported keeping in constant touch with East German security chiefs, however.

A confidential Allied summary of Sunday's widespread disturbances estimated 50,000 East Germans demonstrated against the Red blockade of American food relief.

At least 600 arrests were made. Many men and women were beaten by police.

But in West Berlin, the vast give-away of American food continued yesterday with 150,000 East Berliners getting food parcels.

Only 5,000 Soviet zone residents were able to filter through the Communist armed ring around the city.

In eight days, 1,250,000 parcels have been distributed, furnished by a 15 million dollar gift from the United States.

She picked up her four portions Sunday and started back yesterday.

But at the Russian zone border outside Berlin Communist police seized her and confiscated all her food. The police pushed and cursed her.

"And the worst is still to come," the police warned her, as they recorded her name and identity card number.

"Just wait until you get home. There you are going to pay a fine of 150 marks ($37.50, or about a month's salary). And then your husband is going to be fired from his job. That's what you are going to get for going to Berlin to pick up these American food packages. And don't you dare tell anybody we confiscated your food. Things will go even harder."

Both Houses Vote To Quit Until Jan. 6

Washington (AP)—The 83rd Congress completed its first session and went home last night.

The House had quit at 10:07 p.m., (EST). The Senate followed suit at 11:39 p.m. after a speech by Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore) had threatened to prolong the proceedings.

The speech attacking the Eisenhower administration's power policy delayed adjournment for more than an hour after all legislative business had been transacted.

He had a 41-page prepared address, but cut it short, putting big sections of it in the Congressional Record without reading them.

Many of the senators left as Morse began to talk.

Morse said that a group of senators had planned to keep the Senate in session all night with the series of speeches criticizing the new Republican administration.

He was to make the headoff speech, Morse said, with others to follow and "dramatize the issues."

Before he could get the floor, Morse said, he discovered that most of his senatorial colleagues, all Democrats, had already put their speeches in the record or left the city.

One of the last-minute actions of the Senate was to join with the House in fixing Jan. 6, 1954, as the meeting for the second session of the 83rd Congress.

President Eisenhower's signature is still required to make the date official.

The President sent his "warm thanks and appreciation" to the Senate and House last night for work done in this session.

In the final sweep, the lawmakers completed action on a series of "must" bills and sent them to the White House for the President's signature. The list included:

One—Senate passage, by voice vote, of a trimmed-down version of the administration's global aid bill. Already approved by the House the measure now goes to the White House.

The bill provides 6½ billion dollars for military and economic aid to nearly 60 friendly countries, including $4,531,507,000 in new cash and $2,120,915,300 in carryover funds from past appropriations.

The new money is some 3 billion less than former President Truman requested and about 900 million less than President Eisenhower called the "honest minimum" needed to combat the spread of communism.

Two—Senate approval of a House-passed bill providing $1,086,000,000 for operation of the State, Commerce and Justice Departments in the current fiscal year.

On the House's insistence, the bill left out an earlier Senate-approved provision for 12½ million in federal aid to the nation's airports.

Three—Senate passage, by voice vote, of a 1-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act.

The act calls for creation of a 17-member special commission to study the whole range of U. S. trade policies and submit a report by next March 3.

Written into the bill is authority for the President to clamp quotas or higher import duties on farm products by executive order—without waiting for Tariff Commission recommendations—when he considers U. S. farmers are endangered by foreign imports.

In one of its final acts, the House voted 171-28 in an unrecorded, standing vote to pass a resolution aimed at raising congressional salaries.

The resolution would set up an 18-member commission to study the pay scales of congressmen and federal judges, with an order to the 1954 Congress to take action on the commission's recommendations.

Earlier in the day, Senate GOP leaders announced that the White House had yielded on its demand for a jump in the federal debt limit.

Senate Majority Leader Knowland (R-Calif.) said the President and his top fiscal aides agreed at a White House breakfast conference to wait until next year, if possible, for action on the debt issue.

There had been talk of a possible special session of Congress this fall to consider raising the limit to 290 billion dollars, but Knowland said the administration promised to make every effort to avoid a special session.

Meade, Md. visited the Tobyhanna Signal Depot recently. In the photograph above Colonel William M. Mack (center), depot commander, explains the layout of the new $35,000,000 signal depot.

Signal Corps Depot Staff Undertakes Campaign To Save On Operating Costs

Tobyhanna—Penny-wise Signal Corps officials are letting visitors to the $35,000,000 depot here know their plans for saving the American taxpayer money by cutting corners wherever they can.

Clyde Burke, public information officer, is being assisted in the program by cartoonists, photographers and other staff members as they erect almost daily large signs along "Economy Lane," a narrow corridor which visitors pass through enroute to offices.

One sign shows Col. William Mack, commanding officer, seated beside a chauffeur in an automobile, and directly below is another of the Signal Corps commander in the same car alone. The caption explains the saving of $2,830 to the taxpayer by eliminating the chauffeur and having the commanding officer drive his own car.

Another displays pictorially how the depot is saving $610 by cutting the number of mail truck trips to the postoffice. A third shows how, by consolidating long distance telephone calls, the depot is saving $553.68.

By salvaging, repainting and refilling old fire extinguishers, a saving of $1,220 has been realized, another placard says. Still another states the savings of $16,900 by utilizing temporary administration headquarters rather than construct a separate building to house personnel until their new quarters are complete.

By saving technical files from deactivated installations, such as the one recently vacated by the Signal Corps in Maryland, a savings of $9,490.08 was effected. And the utilizing of lumber, by saving as many board feet as possible in the process of building, has granted $1,393 and this amount is increasing daily, Burke explained.

Grudge Hinted As Motive For Pike Shootings

Pittsburgh (AP) — Investigators added a possible grudge motive yesterday to theories in the slaying of two truckers and wounding of another as they slept in their cabs on or near the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Sheriff Howard J. Clark of Columbiana County, Ohio, said a person deranged by the death of a relative in a truck accident may be responsible for the reign of terror.

"You might call it a theory that's running around in my mind. The killer might have had a relative in an accident involving a truck and it's played on his mind. Now he's out to get all truck drivers."

The sheriff has visited some trucking companies in his county studying reports of fatal accidents. Lt. W. B. Empey of the Ohio highway patrol also disclosed he has checked clues involving fatal truck accidents. But he is putting no special emphasis on the grudge theory.

Shot through the head while sleeping at midnight alongside the turnpike were Lester B. Woodward, 39, of near Harrisburg, and Harry F. Pitts, 39, Bowling Green, Va. John K. Shepard, 34, West Alexander, Pa., was shot in his truck just off the pike in Ohio but survived.

All three were shot with a .32 automatic and ballistics tests showed the same gun fired the shots. The killer struck every three days last week. Had he followed, this schedule there would have been another yesterday. But there was no trace of him.

Only late incident in the investigation was a report of trucker Charles E. Watts, Lawrenceburg, Ind., that a suspicious station wagon—a yellow or tan Chevrolet—shadowed him for 17 miles.

Watts told state police that station wagon got behind him early Sunday west of Reading. He stopped twice at diners for coffee and the station wagon did likewise.

Watts said he lost the car at Pottstown and did not get the number. But he said the man was about 35 to 38, 5 feet 10, 185

Court Decisions In Other States To Help Determine Exemptions Under Sales Tax

Harrisburg, (AP) — Revenue Secretary Otto F. Messner said yesterday court decisions in other states will play an important role in determining exemptions under Pennsylvania's 1 per cent sales tax.

"Those decisions are undergoing close scrutiny as we prepare our regulations," he told a newsman. "We want a positive basis for our own decisions when these regulations are adopted."

He made the statement after a day of closed conferences with retailer groups on just what items will be exempted by the sales levy when it goes into effect Sept. 1.

Although the sales tax law spells out a long list of exemptions, including food, clothing and purchases of 10 cents or less, the revenue department is responsible for pin-pointing possible exemptions not mentioned in the law. Fringe items such as ice cream will be discussed during a series of conferences this week. Ice cream is not mentioned in the law itself. It will be up to the department to decide whether it is a food (exempt) or a confection (non-exempt).

Messner declined to admit newspoonds and has light brown or near blond hair.

The trucker said he didn't learn of the turnpike slayings until he reached Philadelphia. Then he told police his story. Descriptions of the station wagon and driver were sent out on the police teletype.

On the turnpike, drivers worked "the buddy system." They heeded police and trucking association warnings not to park alone on the super toll highway. And if they see another trucker halted for mechanical trouble, they stop and stay with the driver until he is able to continue.

Lone Dissent Amid Praise For Ike Administration Sounded By GOP Governor

Seattle, (AP)—Gov. J. Bracken Lee, Utah Republican, asserted yesterday the Eisenhower administration is "letting the people down on its pledge to cut excessive federal spending."

The fiery Utah governor, attending the 45th annual governors' conference here sounded the only dissent in what otherwise was a solid bank of praise from Republicans—and even some Democrats—for the GOP administration's accomplishments in its first six months in office.

With President Eisenhower flying here to confer with the governors, four of his top rank advisers sat in on round-table discussions and a fifth—Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey—was prepared to address last night's annual state dinner.

Gov. James F. Byrnes, South Carolina Democrat who supported Eisenhower in last year's campaign, told an opening session he was encouraged to believe that the new administration will do something concrete about "the extravagance of federal administration of services that should be rendered by the states."

Utah's Lee told a news conference that after six months of Republican rule in Washington a lot of people are "beginning to feel that it's hopeless that we'll ever change the policies of the New Deal."

"The Republicans promised to stop excessive spending and I think we are letting the people down on that pledge," he said.

He said there is a mixed reaction among the people of Utah to President Eisenhower's record, with some voters "frankly disappointed," others feeling that the President is "doing the best he can" and still others believing that it is hopeless to expect much change in federal policies.

Lee said he personally doesn't agree with what Eisenhower is doing "but that doesn't necessarily make the President wrong." He said Eisenhower ought to take the leadership in stopping some of the programs begun by the past Democratic administrations, adding:

"I don't see how you can get rid of an evil by tapering off on it."

Lee said he is very sorry to see the Republican administration asking for an increase in the national debt limit and favors cutting taxes even before the budget is balanced.

Lee's views on the accomplishments of the Eisenhower administration were not shared by his Republican colleagues.

Gov. John S. Battle, Virginia Democrat, said he thinks the new administration is "doing a reasonably good job" and hopes it will be "eventually successful."

Battle and Gov. John S. Fine, of Pennsylvania, Republican, complained to the conference against what they called federal interference in state affairs.

Fine told of an FBI investigation into the death of a mental patient, Robert Byers, in the Pennsylvania State Hospital at Pottsville. He said the Justice Department is acting under a civil rights statute never intended for such cases.

Land Record Office Set Up In Courtroom

Two rooms in the Courthouse have been approved as work space for the setting up of a permanent land record system under direction of John B. Aicher.

Aicher was retained last week as consulting engineer for the law-required record system which will be used to establish "equal assessments."

Aicher estimates the system will take up to three years to complete and will cost up to $75,000.

He and his staff will occupy the two rooms at the northeast corner of the Courthouse on the ground floor. Sharing this space will be Recorder Floyd Buiz, who has two additional rooms for his own staff, records and equipment.

For the present Aicher is setting up his program and ordering maps and similar supplies. Actual work on the program will not start until September, according to Commissioners Anzi F. Altomese, W. Adolph Rake and Granville Shiffer.

VFW Speaker Raps China

Milwaukee, (AP)—The Veterans of Foreign Wars was asked yesterday to go on record opposing admission of Communist China to the United Nations.

Rep. James Van Zandt (R-Pa.), three-time commander in chief of the VFW, told the 54th annual national encampment in his keynote address:

"We have always been against any appeasement of Communism and the admission of Red China to the United Nations would be appeasement."

Substituting for Vice President Nixon, who was unable to appear here because of Sen. Taft's funeral in Washington, Van Zandt said he wanted the encampment to recommend that the United States "tell the world that the next time aggression develops, we will use our stock pile of atomic bombs, which is being increased daily."

"In 1933," he said, "long before Joe McCarthy became eligible for the VFW and long before he began to manhandle the termites whom we call Communists, this organization was fighting Communism."

"We believe any organization, regardless of class or creed, or any person who aids or assists Communism in any way, should be investigated."

"We especially believe those ministers who have resisted military training and maintenance of an adequate national defense should be investigated."

Industry Refunds $22 Million To Ordnance Corps

Philadelphia, (AP)—The American Car and Foundry Co., has made a $22,544,349 refund to the Ordnance Corps, the largest single voluntary return of allocated funds in the history of the corps, an ordnance officer said.

The refund was disclosed yesterday by Col. Walter M. Tisdale, deputy chief of the Philadelphia Ordnance District, under whose jurisdiction the company's contract is administered.

Tisdale said the refund was made possible because of "progressively lower production costs in the manufacture of armored vehicles made at ACF's Berwick, Pa., plant."

The self-propelled vehicle carries 40mm guns and has the same chassis as a light tank.

Davis Cited For Contempt

Pittsburgh (AP)—U. S. District Judge Rabe F. Marsh cited convicted Communist Benjamin J. Davis for contempt of court yesterday as he testified at the trial of five men charged with conspiring to advocate violent overthrow of the government.

Davis, a former New York City councilman, refused to name members of the Communist party's executive council. He was brought to Pittsburgh from Terre Haute, Ind., where he is serving time in a federal prison.

Davis was convicted of advocating violent overthrow of the government.

Lentz Must Pay Woman $750 Monthly

Norristown, (AP)—Orphans Court Judge J. Burnett Holland ruled yesterday that Lafayette Lentz, 70-year-old clubman and heir to a million-dollar estate, must fulfill the assignments he made of his inheritance to a former Canadian manicurist.

In his opinion Judge Holland wrote that Mrs. Marie Jeanne Laura Beauregard, the one-time manicurist who now lives in suburban Wynnewood, was entitled to $750 a month. That was the amount Lentz assigned her out of income from the estate of his father, the late William O. Lentz, a coal mine operator of Carbon County.

The story of the 15-year-old friendship between Lentz and Mrs. Beauregard, 43, came out at the second accounting of the estate of William O. Lentz.

The audit showed that in 1950 Lentz had assigned $250 a month to Mrs. Beauregard and a few months later added another $500 to be paid her out of his share of the income.

However, at the court hearing Lentz and his wife, Germaine, sought to have the assignments set aside.

The couple through counsel, offered revocations signed by Lentz.

State police of Stroudsburg substitution brought charges of disorderly conduct, reckless driving, speeding, improper passing and failure to stop at a stop sign against Kunkle who was arrested Saturday night after a six-mile chase.

Owner of the car driven by Kunkle, Norman Bardonax, 24, of 512 Sarah St., Stroudsburg paid $10 and costs before Walton for failing to have a muffler on his auto.

Kunkle and a passenger, Calvin Cavanagh, 28, of 727 Monroe St., Stroudsburg, were apprehended by Troopers Peter Walsh and Don Henzey in a chase that started on Route 611 about 8:50 p.m.

Cavanagh paid a fine for disorderly conduct after his arrest. Kunkle was committed to Monroe County jail pending yesterday's hearing.

Tribute To A Statesman

The untimely death of Senator Robert A. Taft has shocked and saddened the nation to which he dedicated so much of his talent and energy, and left a void in the Eisenhower Administration that will be difficult to fill.

Mr. Taft was taken from the American political stage at the peak of his career and the loss to President Eisenhower is one of considerable magnitude. There is no other Republican who quite fits the pattern of Mr. Taft. As Senator leader his powerful persuasiveness and his knowledge of facts was of inestimable help to the President in keeping Republican support behind his legislative program. Little wonder Mr. Taft had won the sobriquet, "Mr. Republican."

This was the man, son of former President William Howard Taft, who himself had aspired to sit in the seat once occupied by his father, and who had suffered his gravest disappointment last year in a tense struggle for the Republican nomination for President.

He could have become the spokesman for the anti-Eisenhower wing of the Republican party. But he chose rather to forge a strong party and became Mr. Eisenhower's key man in the Senate.

After he had been defeated last year at Chicago—the third time he had tried for his party's top prize—the Ohio senator told the President and his friends that his sole remaining ambition was to help attain success for the first Republican administration since 1932.

Thus he buried his own ambitions and put his country first, his party second and himself last. That was the mark of greatness that none could ever deny Mr. Taft possessed.

Nor could anyone deny Mr. Taft's abilities. From the time he began his Senate career in 1938 until his most recent activity as Senate leader, Robert Taft had been an important figure nationally and internationally. He was either admired or intensely disliked here and abroad. There were few who were neutral about the Ohioan.

He was the most outspoken man in politics, and never shied from his duty as he saw it even though he knew he often risked political enmity of groups with whom he disagreed.

Most notable of the bills he fostered was the Taft-Hartley labor law which brought cries from labor leaders that he was a Tory slave driver. His belief that he was right was stronger than any pressure that could be brought to bear on him, and his fighting spirit carried him through his most gruelling political contest when he last ran for the Senate in Ohio and defeated the combined forces of organized labor.

He looked upon that victory as vindication of his belief that the law bearing his name was right.

Senator Taft's vast knowledge in the field of public affairs will be sorely missed by his Senate colleagues and by the President. And the nation yesterday joined in profound, genuine regret at the passing of this great statesman.

The Once Over

—by H. I. Phillips

IKE AND "SAFETY-FIRST"

"President Eisenhower gave White House leadership to plans for a greater highway safety campaign in a Washington conference, attended by top men in the world of auto manufacturing, truck transportation, advertising, radio, video, etc."

says an announcement. It is hard to refrain from a cynical, "Here we go again!" In the past year 28,000 were killed and 1,500,000 injured in auto accidents on the roads of the country, an all-time high, despite the fact that conferences for greater safety have been going on from the day of the first benzene buggy. Hardly a season passes without a half dozen safety-first drives by national bodies. (It always seems to us to be a miracle that the delegates get to and from the meeting without being run over.)

We don't know what the promise of "White House leadership" means but if Ike, with so many other things on his shoulders, can really find time to give it, he must realize that nothing would help more than a plain, direct statement in the genuine Eisenhower manner.

"Boys, if we are leveling in this safety-first drive, we will cut the long speeches, minimize the hotel banquet routines and put the finger on the reasons for murder on the highway. Let's stop the foolish custom of holding conferences and then leaving it up to the publicity man to do the rest. It takes no national conference to determine that the two causes of highway accidents are:

1. Overemphasis on the speed of the automobile by auto manufacturers, including some of the very top men participating in this campaign for safety. And how can we expect new drivers to develop a sense of personal responsibility when the car builders constantly glorify new gadgets which relieve the driver of responsibility and make car operation more and more of a "virtue motion?" Aren't the kids coming up with the belief it takes no more personal alertness to operate a car than a juke-box?

2. An almost total lack of action by municipalities everywhere against the hell-for-leather operation of trucks as big as freight cars. Is there anybody who hasn't been a witness to the nightly hair-raising performance of trailer-trucks on any main artery, with complete disregard of white lines, speed limits and all "SAFETY-FIRST CONVENTIONS?" And will this paragraph bring the usual and traditional letter from the paid press agents of the trucking industry insisting that trucks are driven with the greatest regard for safety? (Brother, will it?)

3.—The use of tens of thousands of policemen to check parking meters and function in minor traffic duties at a time when there is almost no policing of crowded highways. Isn't it screwy, boys, to put so much effort into a drive against a guy who fails to put an extra penny in a meter and so little effort into saving people from death a few blocks away?

"Come on Ike! Show 'em that White House leadership isn't just a matter of a luncheon and a press release."

One of the country's big race tracks, Aqueduct, will put on free hand concerts Sundays as a gesture to the general public. . . . We will play John Philip Sousa to win and Victor Herbert to please and show. . . . But we hear Irving Berlin and Dick Rodgers are fit and ready. . . . The band concerts will attract the nonconformist, unless he goes there for sedate and in the "What can I lose?" spirit, but there will be those who will want a form sheet on the concert, with a complete record of past performances by the musicians. . . . Our suggestions for a band concert program at any race track would include "Pony Boy," "Just a Faded Photo," "Whispering," "Symphony," "Mister, Can You Spare a Dime," "Giddyup Napoleon," "Two for Tea (maker)," "Old-fashioned Waltz," "I Can't Get Started," "Mule Train," and "THE LAST TIME I SAW PAY-OFFS." . . . We expect, of course, to hear one band concert attendant ask another, "What happened to the obse player?" and get the answer, "He got left at the post." . . . And there will be the earnestist who "will hear watching."

"Bicarb" won at Jamaica recently at $7.70 and a friend of ours got a hunch on it through a gas pain. . . . There has been a big drop in subway riders in Gotham since the 15-cent fare went into effect. . . . Maybe a lot of customers are just busy making "slugs." . . . General Douglas MacArthur got pretty "uppy" the other day with a stockholder who wanted to know whether he, as chairman of the board of a big corporation with a wide list of public investors, held any stock in the corporation. . . . "It is nobody's business what I do with my funds," the general said quite emphatically. . . . Well, general, giving the customary salute, we think you dead wrong. . . . Any stockholder in any great corporation likes to know what the directors, and especially the chairman of a board, thinks enough of the business to buy some shares. . . . Many corporations in their reports to stockholders list the holdings of all officers and directors. . . . And there are smart stockholders who, when they see a top official listed as having no shares (or only a few), phone the broker to sell at once. . . . Come on, general, stockholders are not trainees or troop replacements.

POLITICS ADJOURNED

Robert S. Allen Reports

$500 Million In Navy Ships Is Given Away Unnoticed

Washington—Strange and wondrous things happened in the confusion and turmoil of the adjourning Congress and one of the most extraordinary was the unnoticed approval of a bill giving away more than $500,000,000 worth of Navy ships.

Less than 10 minutes were required to run through this remarkable measure, and there was virtually no discussion of it in either the Senate or the House.

Beneficiaries of this grandiose naval "bank night" are as follows:

France—1 Langley-type aircraft carrier, valued at $80,000,000.

Italy—2 snorkel-type submarines, worth around $25,000,000.

Japan, Nationalist Chinese on Formosa, and South Korea—25 destroyers plus an unspecified number of "assorted miscellaneous craft" whose total cost is estimated at not less than $400,000,000.

The aircraft carrier, now undergoing extensive refurbishing on the West Coast, is going to the French for use in the approaching desperate showdown with the Red Vietnamese in Indo-China. The vessel will be turned over fully equipped with planes, guns, munitions and other essentials.

The two big submarines for Italy are also undergoing complete modernization, which includes the expensive snorkel devices and a lot of new radar equipment. This will come to $5,000,000 per craft, in addition to their original cost. The subs are part of the NATO rearmament program.

The 25 destroyers and numerous other ships that will be given Japan, South Korea and the Chinese Nationalists will come from the vessels now on duty in that area. There is no indication how they will be allotted, but the belief in congressional quarters is that Japan will get most of the destroyers.

How it happened The mystery-shrouded naval giveaway started with a proposal to include an aircraft carrier in the list of military aid being rushed to the hardpressed French in Indo-China.

Later, the two snorkel subs for Italy were added. In that form, the bill was passed by the Senate in a few moments. That's the way it stood until the big hush-hush post-war of civilian and military brass at the Quantico Marine Base that President Eisenhower attended.

Several days later, the White House itself quietly sent an amendment to Representative Dewey Short (R. Mo.), chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, where the legislation was pending. This unannounced provision still further enlarged the bill to include the 25 destroyers, the unspecified number of other vessels, plus one other thing.

This item vests in the President full authority to decide who gets these ships and how many. Following is the language of this amendment:

"The President is authorized to lend or otherwise make available to any friendly foreign nation in the Far Eastern area, with or without reimbursement, and on such terms and under such conditions as the President may deem appropriate, such naval vessels not larger than the destroyer-type and not to exceed 25 in number, and such assorted minor miscellaneous craft, naval services, training, technical advice facilities and equipment as he may deem proper."

At a secret meeting of the House Armed Services Committee, members were told the real author of this amendment was Admiral Arthur Radford, former Far Eastern Navy commander who is about to become head of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The inside word was that Radford strongly advocated this addition at the Quantico parley. He, himself, did not appear before the House Committee. Admiral William Feebeler, outgoing Chief of Naval Operations, performed that chore. He told the Committee the amendment was necessary because "of the serious turn of events in the Far East."

Thereafter, with no further discussion in either the Committee or in the House, the greatly-expanded give-away slipped through as a routine bill and late the following night the weary Senate, with few members present, also gave its okay and the unnoticed job was done.

It was an impressive beginning, indeed, for Admiral Radford, who hasn't even yet formally taken over as boss of the Joint Chiefs.

Note: Vice Admiral Roscoe Good, Deputy Chief of Naval Operations, told the Senate Armed Services Committee, "Circumstances necessitate this carrier to support French operations in Indo-China. . . . The military situation there is most difficult. . . . Italy presently has no modern submarines in her fleet. They are urgently needed to institute and maintain proper basic training of surface and air forces in anti-submarine operations."

George Sokolsky Says . . .

There Is No Compromise Between Belief In God And Human Slavery Of Communism

Heard the other day that a mild commentator on the radio, who is quite popular and well-sponsored, privately referred to me as a fanatic. I was not present when the profundity was so smugly spoken.

On the radio and television, fanaticism does not do, because it makes a person controversial. With the exception of Walter Winchell, most of the really successful, money-making commentators are not controversial personalities. I ought to exclude Hans Kantenborn from the well-behaved. Some of the fighting commentators, like Fulton Lewis, Jr., have had to set up their own business to keep on the air. John T. Flynn, an Irishman with a penchant for the truth, has had a very tough time of it.

Now, fanaticism means excessive, stubborn, uncompromising acceptance of a postulate as the truth. If a man, in any field, is sure that he has discovered the truth, he cannot compromise with those, for instance, who are always willing to take the comfortable middle-of-the-road position, which, in effect, says that it does not rain today, it could be a nice day. You can't go wrong with that.

Fanaticism, in our times, expresses itself most often in being either pro or anti-Communist. Men, like Senator Herbert Lehman, can be anti-Communist in their thinking but tolerant of Alger Hiss. That makes such a man a "liberal." Gladstone, the great British Liberal prime minister, was always sure of his position, fanatically sure, but then he lived in another era when liberalism meant an expansion of human freedom and not an escape from decision.

If one believes in the laws of life, as developed in the Jewish, Christian and Islamic religions, accepting a universal God whose divine intelligence provides the Natural Law to all mankind as a way of life, then it is impossible to compromise with Marxism, which, being based upon materialism, rejects God as a superstition and Natural Law as a myth.

Here is a field for fanaticism because compromise is impossible. The smug and the complacent always take the position that not knowing where the truth lies, they insist there are no absolutes. But the believer, the man of faith, whether he believes in God or in Marx, cannot be comforted by ignorance.

The small number of Protestant clergy and Jewish rabbis who fumble over Marxism are not comfortable intellectually, because they are torn between conflicting ideas in their effort to straddle an unbridgeable gap. If they find any justification for Communism at all, it is in their own opposition to capitalism. Yet they know that once the concept of the dignity of the individual man is deserted, slavery follows logically.

There is nothing illogical or irrational in the Communist institution of human slavery. It is an inevitable result of a retreat from the concept of the creation of man in the image of God. That is why Thomas Jefferson restated the concept of man as a created being in the Declaration of Independence. Without that postulate, he could not have asserted individual liberty.

On this subject, no compromises are possible. Either one accepts the Jewish, Christian, Islamic concept of man or he rejects it. Marx rejected it and built a philosophy of life around the rejection. That philosophy controls a state which has mastered 800,000,000 people.

True, that state exists and we have to have business with it, just as a father might be faced by the irrefutable fact that a daughter is a prostitute or a son, an alcoholic. We are often involved in ugly but indisputable facts. That does not mean that we accept the irregular or obscene as right because it exists, any more than we accept polio or cancer as good because they exist.

Here is where such smug people as the nameless commentators fail to think their problems through, always an unpleasant task. He would undoubtedly call himself a Christian; yet, the essence of Christianity is the Natural Law as revealed to man by God. Without that there can be no Christianity that is in any way related to Jesus.

This problem of Marx vs. God, described so vividly by Job and so modernly by Goethe and so offensively by Nietzsche, is the center of conflict in our age. Artful dodgers will move about it, but the pressure of belief and faith is thunderous on either side.

Editor's Note: Because of illness, Jack Lait, editor of the Mirror, will not write his usual column while Mr. Winchell is on vacation. In his place, Lee Mortimer, who with Mr. Lait wrote the series of "Confidential" books, which have sold more than 7,000,000 copies, offers "New York Confidential."

Pinch-hitting for Walter's Pinch-bitter: Don't envy me—pity me. Attempting to fill the shoes of Winchell and Lait, greatest names of modern journalism, is an Herculean task. So, please be charitable!

Names Make News: Insiders report Princess Meg's romance with the handsome captain is a tempest in a teapot, magnified into a cause celebre by the publicity. Sure she likes him, they say, but it wasn't that serious. Anyway, she likes to flirt. Her true love, if such she has, is closer to the palace, and impossible of being realized. Meanwhile the furor raised in Parliament may actually cause her to wed Townsend to save face.

While Prof. Kinsey and his staff were interviewing Indianapolis lordlings for material for his forthcoming flight into the love-lives of gals, the place was pinched. When the good doc identified himself to the shoofies, they naturally didn't bother him.

Word leaked out, however: now, whenever there's a raid in Indianapolis, embarrassed patrons give their names as Kinsey instead of Smith or Jones.

There is no Society: Dunan McMartin, the Canadian mining heir who is no shrinking violet, got a little hoisterous in Bahamas' Windsor Hotel, according to returning vacationers, and wrecked the bar. "Oh, well," signed one of Dunan's playmates, who had seen his whimsies before. "It's HIS hotel."

Brice Pinder and his bride of six months, Terry Morrell, who inherits a meat-packing fortune, have their pals worried. . . . Ditto for the Prince Paul von Metternich of the El Morocco set. . . . Sad note from Paris: The snooty strata no longer bankers for the company of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor. . . . Singer Juliana Larson, who's never been in films, is billed on the French Riviera as the "Beautiful Hollywood Star." Well, maybe her husband, Bedford Sharpe, the Texas oil billionaire, is planning to buy her a studio with the dough he won from me on a Notre Dame-SMU football game. . . . Tucky Astor, John's ex, and Raymond Guest are back from an African jungle honeymoon, which is a switch on Niagara Falls. . . . That gal who works at a local department store isn't Bobo Rockefeller, it's her sister. . . . Princess Alexander Von Hohenlohe, who used to be playful "Honeychile Wulder" before she moved into the Almanach De Gotha, was hostess to Farouk at Mittersill Castle in Austria. Honeychile and her husband operate the ancient family seat as a "private hotel." They got Farouk's patronage because he remembered how she wowed him when he was king. After eyeing his diamond buttons, jeweled crests and pearl studs, she cracked, "King, baby, how about letting me do your laundry?"

Top Secret: If and when figures are made public, it will be discovered we spent more to feed Communist POWs than we did our allies, the brave ROK troops. Startling waste and boondoggling skyrocketed the cost of maintaining one American division to six times that required to operate an ROK division. Meanwhile Pres. Rhoe was able to place 14 fighting divisions in the front line at exactly one percent of what the French spent for four divisions in Indo-China. There are large pro-Communist, pro-North Korean colonies in the U. S. The Hollywood division celebrated the signing of the truce with a "Peoples' Army Victory Song Festival." Meanwhile the State Department refuses to deport known Korean spies and Communists, calls them "refugees of war."

The Crime Cartel: Owey (The Killer) Madden, one-time overlord of New York's underworld will soon find his peaceful "exile" in Hot Springs rudely disturbed. Federal Immigration sleuths are combing his past for evidence to be presented at a denaturalization hearing. How come he got citizenship in 1941 after serving a long fall in Sing Sing for a Hell's Kitchen slaying, and another trick for parole violation? Meanwhile, hearings against dozens of other hoodlums are permanently stymied because their original applications for citizenship, on which they might have committed perjury, mysteriously disappeared from the files.

Looking At Life

—by Erich Brandeis

An alarming note of warning has been sounded from Washington.

We are increasing by 300 persons an hour, it says, and if this goes on, pretty soon we won't have a single resource left.

We are actually eating ourselves out of house and home; we are mining our fields, cutting down our forests and using up our water supply at a suicidal rate, declares the Population Reference Bureau, after making an exhaustive study of the shape we are in.

If this goes on we just won't have any resources at all in a couple of million years—and then what are we going to do?

Unless technology is applied to control the birth rate as well as the death rate, says the Bureau's study, it is not likely that the world will gain the breathing spell needed to develop a rock-wool-water-ouglit economy which could nurture 5,000,000,000 people.

Don't rely on nuclear power to pull us out of the hole, the report warns us. It is likely to remain much too expensive.

So that is out.

But, in my humble opinion, the Bureau's suggestion that we control the birth rate and the death rate, is also out.

I think that as long as the world exists there will always be the institution of marriage.

And as long as people marry there will be children, all the statistics in the world notwithstanding.

The trouble with most statistics and statistical organizations is that they don't include human nature in their researches.

Human beings don't seem to respond very well to the slide rule or the adding machine.

There is a still very much unknown element in every human being for a better term, let me call it Element E.

I call it "E" because E is the first letter of the word "emotion," and emotions have never yet been nor I doubt that they ever will be—statistically measured or classified.

Let us suppose that a statistician comes along and says, "You must have no more children."

The man and the woman agree. They won't have any more children.

Then along comes a beautiful June moon night. Jim and Jane (that's our statistical couple) still very much in love are exposed to all its blandishments and all its wonders.

All their statistical promises are forgotten. By next March one more user of the world's resources has been added to the population.

The Bureau also suggests that the death rate be controlled. How?

Would the Bureau perhaps retard the progress of medicine? Would it advocate a law that our medics and scientists stop prolonging life and shorten it instead?

A half century ago our life span was much lower than it is today. Would those gentlemen in Washington cut it back to the old rate for the sake of iron, copper and steel?

Personally I would much rather take my chance on the coming generations finding new resources than to prevent one baby from being born or to take one hour of life away from anyone when life is already so short.

Try and Stop Me

—by Bennet Cerf

A farmer collared his 9-year-old son to demand, "Who chopped down that cherry tree?" The lad hung his head and said, "I did, father dear. I cannot tell a lie. I did it with this little hatchet." Father thereupon hoisted the lad across his knees and whaled the what-for out of him. "But, father," cried the outraged son, "George Washington cut down a cherry tree and when he admitted it, his dad didn't wallop him. In fact, the story was written for other little boys to read." "That's right," said the farmer grimly, "but when little George chopped down the tree, his poor father wasn't in it!"

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Just goes to prove that we need a rainy day once in a while to make us appreciate the good ones. Everybody went around congratulating each other on the weather yesterday, as if they'd personally planned it that way.

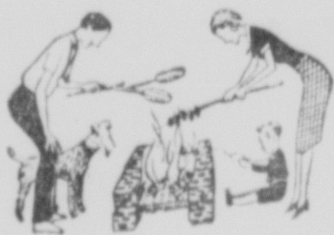

Well, they might go on and plan another one just like it for today because this promises to be a busy, busy one for anybody with any interest in the General Hospital. The card party this afternoon and the Antique Show opening day, which fortunately continues right up to 10:30 tonight so you can take in both affairs.

Of course, the Antique Show is on all the rest of the week, but most people require two or three trips. One to look, another to decide on what to buy and a third to be sure they haven't missed anything.

The card party's not only today, though, so it's not over and probably will bring together a lot of people who haven't seen each other since club stopped in May. When they'll find a break in the conversation to bid is the big problem.

It's nice to have two such big events on the calendar, but we could have spread them out a little. I suppose. However when a woman's had her hair set for the card party I suppose she'd just as soon go on and finish her other social obligations before the curl comes out and she reverts to her usual summer sun-dress-and-sandal self.

Seems as if in August everybody sort of hurries their relaxing. If that's possible, with the first chill mornings turning everyone's thoughts to Fall.

Vacation Day Hazards In Backyards

(First of Two Articles) by Jane Kade

Washington — Keep a close watch on the children these vacation days, even if they are playing in your own backyard, especially if they are playing alone. Accidents can and frequently do happen in the yard.

If an accident occurs, says the Red Cross, care given within a matter of seconds may determine whether the minor injury becomes a major one or whether the major injury becomes a fatality.

One of the common activities that need supervision is wading in a pond or home-type wading pool. Even though there is very little water in most of these, a very small child could drown if he fell face down.

Falls and cuts are the most common accidents around the home. The Red Cross urges parents not to leave garden tools about, or permit their children to leave their toys lying around the yard or steps.

If a child suffers a severe fall, check first for injuries before moving him. Many injuries are aggravated by moving the victim improperly. If breathing has stopped, artificial respiration should be applied immediately. If a person is bleeding profusely, the first-aid should apply direct pressure on the wound, with a pad and tight bandage.

Help prevent shock by keeping the injured child lying down in a comfortable position with his head level with his body until you know how serious the injury is. Keep the injured child warm, maintaining normal body temperature if possible. Never give water or other liquid to an unconscious person. If he's conscious, and there is no evidence of abdominal injury, water may be given in sips. Hot tea or coffee may be given, particularly if the victim is cold. In cases where the accident appears to be serious, send for a physician or an ambulance.

Wyckoff's Sportswear — Second Floor

A. B. Wyckoff

Working in a store is pretty hard on the pocket book particularly at times such as this when one walks around and finds markdowns in every department. What's a woman to do? she needs wearing apparel doesn't she? So do her children, don't they? And here she is in a world of special buys, unbelievable values, and slashed prices.

Consider the bathing suits! Excitement ran high in our store yesterday when 350 brand new, first quality suits of a famous brand name arrived in our sportswear department. They are beauties. What is more, the original prices were printed right on the attached tags. Some were made to sell for as little as $8.99; others for as much as $22.95. Wyckoff's is offering them in a mid-season special at $5.99, $6.99, and $9.99. So—if you're looking for an inexpensive suit to put away for next summer . . . if you're sick and tired of the dreary looking suit you've been wearing all this year and want to end the season in a blaze of glory . . . or, like me, you're planning an October vacation in the sunny south, now's the time to invest in truly stunning beach attire.

If you'd like to know more about these suits, here are a few additional facts: — they are fashioned of such new, durable, beautiful fabrics as chromum and orlon; such time-tested fabrics as cotton and nylon; and such form fitting glamour materials as lastex. There are one-piece styles . . . two pieces, and shirtwaist types, and there is one style suit that has a matching beach coat. This particular ensemble is priced at a low $9.99.

There are colors that will take top honors in any scene—whether in or out of the water. Sapphire blue, for instance; erison, charcoal, turquoise — just about anything you'd find in the rainbow or on the artist's palette. The girl who wears any one of these suits will be the prettiest thing on the horizon—and we can't let her whether she's short, tall, lean or plump.

NOW do you see what I mean, when I say it's really business working for a department store? If you like color and imagination in your home furnishings, it's tough to say no to such bargains as the Martex towels now on sale in our domestics department — towels in vivid rose, delicate peach, antique gold, and deep navy. Quite a change these are from the days when bath towels were white or, if one wished to be different or daring, white bordered with a pastel.

It's hard too to turn away from a counter that displays authentic Grandma Moses prints at $1.59. These cloths, 16 by 24 inches in size, have uses galore. Some customers have them framed for hanging in pairs; others spread them on the backs and arms of sofa and chairs. Still others like them as place mats for the table, or as covers for cushions. I like them on general principle for almost everything. There are four scenes, one of a New England community with churches and brick houses; the others of a farm at various seasons of the year.

It's equally hard to overlook our fabrics—particularly the crinkle crepes now 58¢ (formerly 82¢) which would be so useful in the making of Christmas gifts. What about dusters . . . aprons . . . smocks . . . house coats . . . and "round home clothes"?

As I said, working in a store can be rough on the pocket book. It's quite a knack to end up at the end of the week with something for the bank. But spending at Wyckoff's is fun — and you always get more than your money's worth.

Comes a telephone call from Mrs. Robert Miller reminding everyone of this afternoon's public card party at Pocono Manor Inn, sponsored by the Anna Logan Society of the General Hospital. Lots of beautiful prizes, she says, prettily tied with ribbons from Wyckoff's. Going?

District Elks To Honor New State Leader

Barney Wentz, president-elect of the Pennsylvania Elks Association for the 1953-54 term, will be a guest of honor at a dinner to be given by the Northeast Pennsylvania Elks Association during the state convention in Harrisburg this month.

The dinner will take place Tuesday, August 25, at 6:30 p.m. Mr. Wentz is the first Northeast District member ever elected state president.

Representatives from all 19 lodges in the district laid plans for the dinner at their quarterly meeting Sunday at Lehighton. East Stroudsburg Lodge was one of those represented.

Respects were paid the memory of William Eden, Lansford, whose unexpected death occurred earlier in the year. Secretary Warner gave the eulogy.

Lansford lodge was endorsed to represent the district at the ritualistic contest to be conducted at the state sessions.

John French, member of Sayre Lodge, the new district deputy grand exalted ruler, was presented and responded with brief remarks.

Ladies were entertained during the business session after which luncheon was served by the host lodge.

Favorable reports were given concerning progress of college students, sponsored by individual lodges and the district who otherwise might have been deprived of the privilege.

The next quarterly meeting will be held Nov. 1 at Mount Carmel.

The sacrament of infant baptism was administered at 3 p.m. The monthly meeting of the Vestry will be held tonight at 8 in the church school room. Important matters will be presented. All members are urged to be in attendance.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Sunday's rain probably will result in the current baseball season being extended for at least one week for the Pocono Mountains League, Blue Mountain League and the Pocono Mountains Association. It will be a tough job for each of the circuits to work these games into the short schedule still remaining to be played. Pocono Lake and West End A. C. played through a constant rain in the first game of their doubleheader Sunday. This Pocono Mountains League battle was the only diamond action in the area.

Is it true that we will see at least one more new face in the Pocono Mountains League before the current campaign comes to an end? One of the area schools should have some good news for sports followers in the vicinity by the coming weekend. I wonder why the Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg Little Leagues have not given their respective fields official names. All games in the Pocono Mountains Little League will begin promptly at 6 p. m. for the balance of the current campaign.

Hazleton, the team that defeated Stroudsburg, recently lost the Little Bigger League championship of Pennsylvania by a 5-4 count to the Interboro Optimists, Chester County. The Interboro Optimists will now play in the Region Two tournament in Coopersburg, N. Y. The winner of the Region Two tournament will go to Trenton, where the second annual Little Bigger League World Series will be held. Jim Steele pitched a no-hit game in the East Stroudsburg Minor League last Saturday.

Pat Shields, of Pine Tree Camp, will direct the Pocono Pines Horse Show a week from this coming Saturday. Two Minor League games will take up the card for the East Stroudsburg Little League today. Monroe County will be well represented at all the White Sox-Yankees games to be played at the Stadium this coming weekend. "Red" Clifton, East Stroudsburg, has been unimpaired in District Four Little League playoffs in the Hazleton area. Fans are still talking about a pair of catches made by Jerry Williams, an outfielder for the Pocono Mountains Little League, during the District Four Little League, playoff contest with McAdoo.

The West Hazleton club will put on its exhibition at Pocono Pines on Friday, at 7 p. m. The outstanding exhibition is being made possible by the Pocono Bowmen, a recently organized archery club in the Pocono Pines area. Major Bill Varney is president of the Bowmen and John Martin is secretary. Many parents will be able to see their youngsters play for the first time this season tomorrow when the East Stroudsburg Little League field. In the past the circuit's play has been limited to Saturday morning.

Three years ago when the North Atlantic League was slowly fading up, people laughed when it was announced that the Stroudsburg Poconos had to average over 600 fans a game to keep the club in operation. This writer's memory turned back to 1950 and the situation at Gordon Giffels field, when the Hornet, N.Y., entry in the Pony league announced that it had to raise $8,500 by Monday, August 10, or lose its franchise. The Stroudsburg Poconos, however, has averaged 640 fans a game this season, its lowest attendance figure in six years, despite the fact the club is now holding down second place in the standings.

Gene Law, former pitcher with the Stroudsburg Poconos, won his 19th game of the season for Spartanburg of the class "B" Tri-State League, on Saturday, July 25. Gene, a native New Yorker, has been defeated only four times. Law's latest victory was over Gastonia, by a 10-5 score. Harry Schaeffer, another former hurler for the Poconos and also a graduate of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, lost his ninth game of the season for Kansas City last week. Harry, a southpaw, has won seven contests thus far this season.

Football practice at area high schools is under way for Monday, August 17, while East Stroudsburg State Teachers College begins its grid drills on Monday, August 31. Two of the prize ESSTC grid hopefuls, Bill Shires and Dave Lutz, have signed professional baseball contracts and won't be eligible for athletics up on Normal Hill this coming school year. Jack Bergman, former Monroe County Softball League umpire, is now calling the plays in the Little Bigger League of the Stroudsburgs.

Allen Smith, a graduate of Tohshanna Township High School and East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, is shooting in the low 70s in golf at Pocono Manor this summer. Al is an assistant to Jack Cuttle in the Pocono Manor pro shop. Camp Sun Mountain is expected to be one of the toughest tests to be met by the Henryville House cagers during the latter's summer basketball schedule. They play tonight.

Blue Mountain League Preparing For Playoff Tilts

Final Contests To Determine Flag Winner

Portland — Post-season playoffs in the Blue Mountain League may get underway on Sunday, providing suitable plans can be made for such a venture at Thursday's special league meeting to be held at the Marconi Social Club, Roseto.

Thursday's meeting was made necessary when a three-hour huddle failed to reach an agreement on playoff plans at last night's gathering held here at the Village Barn.

One of the stinking blocks at last night's gathering was the uncertainty of the pennant winner. Martins Creek currently holds a half-game lead over second place Roseto, with the latter still in a fine position to capture the flag.

Games

Roseto plays Johnsonville today and Portland on Thursday, while Martins Creek battles Johnsonville tomorrow and Pocono A. C. on Thursday.

All teams were represented at last night's meeting except Pocono A. C., which in turn was fined five dollars for being absent.

Thursday's meeting will involve only the top four clubs. If the playoffs don't begin this coming Sunday they will get underway on Tuesday.

It was also announced during the meeting that the annual league banquet would be held sometime before November, at Tatamy.

Woodrow A. Jones, Nazareth, and Armon Williams, Bangor, president and secretary of the league respectively, were in attendance at last night's meeting, as was Jim Schlegel, Nazareth, who represented the Blue Mountain Umpires Association.

The next regular league meeting is listed for Monday, August 31.

Shantz Hurts Arm Again

Philadelphia (AP) — Little Bobby Shantz, the sensation of baseball last year and the American League's most valuable player of 1952, may be through for the season.

Shantz left Sunday's first game against Cleveland with a recurrence of the arm injury that sidelined him for seven weeks recently. His arm stiffened in the fourth inning.

This has been a rough season for the smallest pitcher in baseball. He's won five and lost eight as compared with a 19-3 mark at this same time in 1952 and a seasonal log of 24-7. He's been plagued with arm trouble since injuring a muscle in his shoulder in Boston earlier in the campaign.

Two Victories

The southpaw came back about 10 days ago and won two games, beating St. Louis and Chicago in the west. He rested a week before starting in the rain and cold against Cleveland Sunday. Manager Jimmy Dykes of the Philadelphia Athletics removed his ace after four innings with Cleveland leading 2-0.

Redlegs Keep Strack Alive

Cincinnati (AP) — Joe Nuxhall blanked the last-place Pittsburgh Pirates on five hits last night for a 5-0 Cincinnati victory. The triumph was the fourth straight for the Redlegs and all were won by left-handed pitchers.

Nuxhall's shutout was the second in two days for Cincinnati pitchers, who now have allowed only one run in the last three games.

Phillies Bow Before Cardinals

St. Louis (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals, successful with an early-inning attack, stopped a ninth-inning Philadelphia drive to take an 8-3 decision from the Phillies last night.

"Vinegar Bend" Mizell went into the ninth with only three hits against him but Connie Ryan spoiled the shutout with a two-run pinch hit home run.

Mangrum Captures Top Prize In All-American Golf Tourney

By Charles Chamberlain

Chicago, (AP) — Lloyd Mangrum, twenty 29-year-old grandfathers, pocketed the $3,420 top prize yesterday at Tam O'Shanter by winning the All-American golf crown with a pressure-jammed last round of 67.

His 72-hole total of 275 was 13 strokes under par 36-36-72 for the 6,915-yard layout.

Mangrum, the Tam's tournament circuit representative, thus started what he hopes will be another grand slam at the club.

Mount Pocono, Pocono Lions Down Little League Rivals

Mount Pocono Rotary turned in a brilliant victory over Barrett Rotary at Mountaintown's Signin field last night, 2-1, and Pocono Lions rolled over Barrett Lions, 16-1, at Pocono Pines, in a pair of Pocono Mountains Little League games.

The Signin field contest saw Mount Pocono score two runs on three hits, while the losing Barrett club could pick up only one run on four safeties. Only three errors were committed in the contest.

Pocono Lions had everything their way in the other half of last night's schedule and missed scoring only in the first inning. Eight runs in the third, following a four-run outburst in the fourth, crushed the Barrett Lions.

Pair Of Big Innings Put Game On Ice

Line Material scored in the first four innings and then coasted to an 8-3 victory over Worthington Mower in a Little Bigger League of the Stroudsburg baseball game at Gordon Giffels field last night.

The two teams waged an even struggle through the first two inings, with Line Material leading 2-1 at that point. But the ultimate winner produced its winning margin in the third and fourth innings with three markers in each frame.

Worthington Mower tried to fight back in the late innings, but the best the losing aggregation could do was score single runs in the fourth and fifth frames.

The losing aggregation was held to only one hit by the combined pitching of Tommy Kloess and Vogt, while the winning contingent accounted for eight safeties. Four Worthington Mower errors also hurt the losing club.

Today's schedule calls for Barrett and Monroe Silk to clash at Giffels Field at 6:15 p.m. This game was originally slated to be played at Barrett but has been moved to the W. Main St. field.

Stanky Given Three-Year Extension On Present Contract, Support Of New St. Louis Owner

St. Louis, (AP)—Manager Eddie Stanky of the St. Louis Cardinals, in solid with his boss even though his club has faltered in the pennant race, yesterday was given a contract extension running through 1956.

Stanky also is to have a bigger voice in a long-range Cardinals rebuilding program and a free hand to experiment with young players for the remainder of this season.

The contract, longest ever granted a Cardinal manager, was reported to call for the same salary Stanky has been receiving, about $40,000 annually.

"It's one of the biggest honors I have ever received in baseball," Stanky said.

"I won't be satisfied to have just a good Cardinal club

'Deathbed' Retirements For State Employees Are Eliminated By New Law
Harrisburg, (AP)—"Deathbed" retirements for state employees are now a thing of the past in Pennsylvania.
A new law provides that state workers 60 or more years of age with 25 years of state service can now file a retirement form which will go into effect upon actual retirement or upon death.
It entitles the worker's family to not only his contribution to the state retirement fund but also the state's matching share.
Until now, the matching share had been withheld from an otherwise eligible state employee if he died while still on the job.
The "deathbed" retirement phrase was coined for the practice of a dying state worker signing a retirement form so that his heirs could qualify for the matching state share, often running into thousands of dollars.
The commonwealth recognized the practice as legal as long as the postmark on the retirement letter was dated earlier than the death certificate.

Convicted Red Leader Gets Death Sentence
Athens, Greece, (AP)—A military tribunal yesterday sentenced to death a convicted leader of the outlawed Greek Communist party and handed out stiff prison terms to two women accused of having concealed him.
Nicholas Zachariades, Greek Communist secretary general, and nine other Red leaders believed to be behind the Iron Curtain were sentenced to death in absentia.
Nicholas Ploumbidis, chief defendant in the trial which ended yesterday, was arrested last November after being sought by police for six years. He was a member of the Politburo of the outlawed Red party and, after Zachariades, was one of the Reds most sought by the authorities.
Ploumbidis was convicted on charges of organizing a Communist underground and having established a radio network by which Greek military, political, and economic information was relayed behind the Iron Curtain.

Wife Slayer Given Life Imprisonment
Scranton, (AP)—Walter Stepper, 29, who pleaded guilty to the 1952 slaying of his wife, Lillian, 27, yesterday was sentenced to life imprisonment.
President Judge T. Linus Hoban and Judge Michael J. Eagen of Lackawanna County Court fixed Stepper's crime at first degree murder with life imprisonment.
Judge Otto P. Robinson wrote a dissenting opinion in which he branded Stepper's crime as a "cold, cold-blooded merciless murder."
Mrs. Stepper was killed with a blast from a sawed-off shot gun after a quarrel with her husband about another woman.

Pilot Credited With Averting Major Tragedy
Paris, (AP)—A French pilot bailed his disabled Air France Constellation on a beach in Southwest Turkey yesterday saving the lives of 38 of the 42 persons aboard, including those of an American mother and her child.
The pilot, Capt. Raymond Terry, sent out an SOS early yesterday morning saying his two left engines had failed and that he was about to make a crash landing near the tiny island of Kastellorizon, off Southern Turkey.
Instead, he nursed the huge plane toward Fethiye, on the Gulf of Maki, to the northwest, and nursed it toward the beach. He landed in the water close enough to shore for the momentum to carry it onto the beach. Four passengers were killed and three were injured.
All eight members of the crew, including the skipper, survived.
The American passenger was Mrs. Marjorie Clark Yahyavi, of Portland, Ore., who was returning with her child from the United States to Tehran, Iran, to join her Iranian husband. The accident occurred on her 27th birthday.
